Design Study

Help us to enhance online communities for people managing cancer

We are designing new ways to connect people with peer mentors in online communities. The goal of this study is to evaluate how we recommend peer mentors.

Who can participate?

People who are comfortable using Internet/Web technology, can speak and read English, are at least 18 years old, and have experience managing cancer as either a patient or caregiver.

Time Commitment:

One initial 15-minute phone session and one 60-minute follow up session at the University of Washington. Between sessions you will complete a 1-2 page personal story about your cancer experience that we expect will take 30-45 minutes to complete.

Compensation:

Participants will receive $30 at the follow up session.

During the phone session, we will ask about your background and personality style. During the follow up session, we will show you profiles or fictitious peer mentors and ask you to rate them according to your preference. We will also ask you questions about your opinions about recommending peer mentors in online communities.. The follow up session will be audio recorded.

If you are interested in participating or if you have questions, please contact us!
Thank you,
